Mapping the Ekopolitan Project: A Spatial Approach to Pan-African Circulations

Spring 2019
Location TBD
M/W 2:40 – 3:55 or 4:10 – 5:25

Description
*This course is designed as a historical research seminar that is open to first year students and sophomores. Thematically the course dwells at a point of intersection between African history and African diaspora history.
*In this course, we will be studying African migrations to Africa, and within the continent, in the 19th and 20th centuries. We will be reading scholarly works on spatial history, African migrations, and ‘Back-to-Africa’ movements.
*We will also be analyzing primary sources on African migrations, which shall form the bases of a series of digital scholarship workshops. These workshops will cover mapping with ArcGIS, translating qualitative knowledge into quantitative data, and effective digital storytelling.
*The digital projects that we generate in this class will be published on the professor’s research blog, www.ekopolitanproject.org.
*The course will have a dedicated personal librarian and dedicated teaching assistants from the Empirical Reasoning Center who will assist with training students in historical research, historical mapping, and digital scholarship more broadly.
*This seminar will meet twice weekly for class discussions and skills trainings. All trainings will take place within the context of class meetings.

Readings
- Roquinaldo Ferreira: Cross-cultural exchange in the Atlantic world: Angola and Brazil during the era of the slave trade
- Lisa Earl Castillo, The Yoruba in Brazil, Brazilians in Yorubaland: cultural encounter, resilience, and hybridity in the Atlantic world
- Solimar Otero, Afro-Cuban Diasporas in the Atlantic World
- Lisa Lindsay, Atlantic bonds: a nineteenth-century odyssey from America to Africa

Student Learning Outcomes
Demonstrate knowledge about African migrations in the Atlantic World
Explain the merits and limitations of spatial approaches to historical research
Visualize quantitative and qualitative data
Render historical maps
Practice transcription of handwritten documents
Practice primary source criticism
Clearly distinguish between primary and secondary sources
Requirements
Participation 15%
Opening Discussion 10%
Workshop Assignments 40%
Draft StoryMap 20%
Final StoryMap 15%

Participation. Seminar participants must complete reading assignments before each meeting and be prepared to participate actively in all seminar discussions.

In Class Presentation. Each student is responsible for opening presentations for two class meetings. Good presentations will include but are not limited to providing a brief intellectual bio of the author, critical evaluation of each reading, statement of key shared themes, a larger framework within which to consider readings, and a list of 3 discussion questions which must be submitted to the professor. You may work in pairs as relevant.

Wellness Statement. It is important for undergraduates to recognize and identify the different pressures, burdens, and stressors you may be facing, whether personal, emotional, physical, financial, mental, or academic. We as a community urge you to make yourself--your own health, sanity, and wellness--your priority throughout this term and your career here. Sleep, exercise, and eating well can all be a part of a healthy regimen to cope with stress. Resources exist to support you in several sectors of your life, and we encourage you to make use of them. Should you have any questions about navigating these resources, please visit these sites:

ODS Statement
If you are a student with a documented disability and require academic accommodations in this course, you must register with the Office of Disability Services (ODS) for assistance. Students requesting accommodations will need to first meet with an ODS staff member. Once registered, students are required to request accommodation letters each semester to notify faculty. Accommodations are not retroactive, so it is best to contact ODS early each semester to access your accommodations. If you are registered with ODS, please see me to schedule a meeting outside of class in which you can bring me your faculty notification letter and we can discuss your accommodations for this course. Barnard ODS is located in Milbank Hall, Room 009/008
